

Five Senses Writing Exercise – Student A

9/28/2016

Step 1: Recall the Five Senses of the Experience

Smell	Coffee, warm sandwiches, sweet!
See	Other baristas, coffee machine, refrigerator/freezer/oven, customers, muffins/cookies, sandwiches/soups
Hear	Music, talking, blender, coffee brewing, steaming milk
Taste	Sweet coffee flavors, sugary
Feel	Croissants, money, coffee cups

Step 2: Write First Draft of Your Introductory Paragraph

The smell of a freshly made vanilla latte greets me as I enter [REDACTED] Coffee House. I can hear the other baristas chatting with our regular customers. I can almost taste the sweetness of the sugary coffee drinks in the air. I get straight to work with my usual routine of making sandwiches. The croissants feel soft and fluffy in my hands. I turn the croissants into ham and cheese sandwiches, and leave a note for the morning barista to read before she bakes them. Leaving ham and cheese love notes is something I do every afternoon. I love the thought of greeting the morning barista with something that is sure to leave a smile on her face. I'm zoned out, listening to the 1975 on the stereo, when all of a sudden I hear a knock at the door. It is my wonderful bosses, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED].

Frontier Tutoring is a member of the National Association for College Admission Counseling and subscribes to the Statement of Principles of Good Practice.